Read:

Andrássy Avenue (Hungarian: Andrássy út) is a boulevard in Budapest, Hungary, dating back to 1872. It links Erzsébet Square with the Városliget. Lined with spectacular Neo-renaissance mansions and townhouses featuring fine facades and interiors, it was recognised as a World Heritage Site in 2002. It is also one of Budapest's main shopping streets, with fine cafes, restaurants, theatres, Embassies and luxury boutiques. Among the most noticeable buildings are the State Opera House, the former Ballet School (under reconstruction since several years), the Zoltán Kodály Memorial Museum and Archives, the Hungarian University of Fine Arts and the Ferenc Hopp Museum of East Asian Arts.

AIRBNB is popular and well organized in Hungary.

The exact address is not given until you make the booking, but you can ask the owner on what street the flat is located and how far is from the studio or how you can get to the studio. AIRBNB owners are very helpful and speak English.

You should check cancellation policy before booking. They have 3 types, flexible, moderate ad strict. You can also search by 'map' which will make it easy for you to locate the suitable apartment.

Areas/streets to 'avoid' when booking accommodation

Some streets have a huge variety of restaurants, bars and cafes. These can be noisy during the evening. Prior to booking confirm with owner where the apartment is located and if it's close to any of these street or similar to them.

Although the apartment might be located close or on these streets, it can be still quiet if the apartment's windows are facing the internal courtyard and not the main street.

TRANSPORT

You can travel on subways, buses, Yellow Streetcars (or tram), trolleys, they all work fine... 😊

The 'yellow' subway which runs below Andrassy Avenue is a heritage line, the loveliest of all.
